POLICY AREA

TRAFFIC AND PROSTITUTION

The main mission of PIAM is to support victims of trafficking, especially victims of sexual exploitation. The operators in charge of Street Unit activities meet women forced to prostitution, as well as women who freely choose to exercise it.

We don't condemn and we don't discriminate

While exploitation is not legal in Italy, prostitution has never been an illegal activity.

Piam social workers offer healthcare to all sex workers, especially to prevent HIV/AIDS and sexually transmitted infections. Providing assistance is the first step to create a trustful relationship with sex workers; they are offered the opportunity to quit the streetlife, with the support of social services.

If a sex worker gets infected with a sexually transmitted infection, she might not be able to heal properly - even though she decides to quit prostitution. This situation can strongly affect her future.

On the other hand, Piam provides help to victims of trafficking forced into prostitution, to plan and have a good life, without being forced to sell their bodies.

PIAM is the managing organisation of the Anello Forte project, coordinated by the Piedmont Region and aimed at providing assistance of victims of trafficking and severe exploitation. The main activities of the Anello Project are: First Contact (street unit, information desk, indoor activities, legal counselling for the first audition at the Territorial Commission, support to CAS and SPRAR facilities), protection and first assistance (managing of emergency shelter, health and legal assistance) and residential accommodation (houses management, legal protection, economical support of bureaucratic and health expenses, psychological support, cultural mediation, mentoring, employment workshops, life-skills development).

In 2018 Piam sheltered 13 women victims of trafficking for sexual exploitation (including a minor) and 1 man victim of labor exploitation.

We provided more than 100 anti-traffic counselings interviews at refugees' centers to identify victim of trafficking, with the collaboration of SPRAR, Territorial Commission for the right of asylum and the Prefectures.

WELCOMING REFUGEES AND ASYLUM SEEKERS

During the meetings, the participants explored the meaning and the emotional dimension of the role of mothers, and reflected on the needs of the children and on the duties to which the caregiver is called upon, in order to ensure the kids with a happy and healthy childhood.

"SHULE" - GLOBAL SKILLS

SHULE, Swahili word that stands for "school", is a project promoted by Piam Onlus, Coop Company and CO.A.LA Consortium, funded by Social Foundation of Alessandria.

The main goal of SHULE is the promotion of short training courses in the catering sector, and tourism sector, addressed to foreign asylum seekers and refugees living in the territory of Asti and Alessandria.

This project is the outcome of a long lasting collaboration between two apparently different organizations: a non-profit organization dealing with refugees and a local catering business.

Started as short-term pilot project, the initiative can now be replicated, involving more and more beneficiaries, on the neighboring territory of Alessandria.

The 32 beneficiaries of the project attended training classes that included Italian language, safety at work and workshops; job placements were implemented in restaurants and catering services in the Monferrato area.

SHULE, in fact, is not only a training course and a job placement opportunity, but has the ambition to represent the link between local companies and institutions in order to promote, through work, the social inclusion of refugees and asylum seekers. SHULE matches economic needs and moral and civil duties.

NEW LOCATION

SHELTER HOME FOR ASYLUM SEEKING AND REFUGEES WOMEN WITH MINORS

On 23 April 2018, in the village of Castellero PIAM inaugurated a shelter for asylum seeker women and victims of trafficking with children. An ambitious project to promote the social and cultural integration of victims of trafficking and asylum seeker women with minor children.

This objective cannot be reached only through a housing solution, but it is the result of the interaction between public and private institutions responsible of taking charge of these vulnerable women and the dynamics of the social and working context of the community they live in.

The project is therefore intended to accompany victims of trafficking and asylum seekers with minor children through social and work inclusion paths.

For all the beneficiaries, in fact, a personalized project is defined, taking into account the culture of origin, the migratory path, personal history and individual skills, to favor the best integration in the social context.

The individual project allows - through psychological counseling, legal assistance, education to the Italian ethical-relational codes, literacy, training and job placement - the elaboration of exploitation experiences.

Multi-ethnic teams that include cultural mediators and peer educators are the key actors in charge of accompanying and guiding the beneficiaries to strengthen life, linguistic and professional skills. The project includes a close collaboration with local Social Services institutions, which are involved first and foremost as professionals with specific expertise in the field of child protection, support for parenting and in dealing more effectively with issues concerning women victims of trafficking with dependent children. In fact, to extend the challenge, the shelter will also serve as location for trainees of the University of Alessandria (Faculty of Social Sciences).

U.N.O.D.C

In almost 20 years of activity, PIAM Onlus Association has built a network of synergies with local authorities and institutions, becoming a reference point at national level in the fight against human trafficking.

In this context, PIAM obtained funding from UNODC (United Nations Office of Drugs and Crimes).

The United Nations fund named UNODC (Voluntary Trust Fund for Victims of Human Trafficking) granted 11 one-year projects, aimed at providing assistance in the identification of potential victims of trafficking in migratory flows.

The project submitted by PIAM is among the 11 projects selected worldwide and is the only one financed in Italy.

This is a further recognition at international level, of the work that PIAM has been carrying out for years with professionalism and commitment.

The A.C.T. project (Asti Contra la Tratta - Asti Against Human Trafficking) represents another valid opportunity to implement, and where necessary improve, the good practices that make PIAM an accredited subject in the fight against trafficking and the exploitation of human beings.

The project plans to reach about 20 girls and women who are potential, suspected or victims of trafficking, provide a temporary shelter for a period of 60 days, psychological assistance, legal and health advice.

Most beneficiaries (about 80%) are expected to be between 16 and 23 years old.

Fifty other women will receive basic assistance and information on their basic rights.

The project will reach other 100-200 beneficiaries during information sessions and training courses carried out by PIAM social workers in the major reception centers (CAS) in the region.

At the end of the 60-day reception period, with the collaboration of other interested parties involved in the social protection and reception system, PIAM will address the beneficiaries to different destinations, taking into consideration their different needs and expectations.

COLLABORATIONS

FAMI BARAKA

PIAM Onlus, in partnership with Crescere Insieme SCS Onlus, Municipality of Asti, Consortium C. I. S. A. - Asti Sud and Municipality of Alice Bel Colle obtained from the Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund 2014-2020 O.S.1- O.1.1. Lett. C, co-financed by the European Union and the Ministry of the Interior, the granting of a contribution for a project named BARAKA.

The constant growth in foreign residents in the areas of Asti and Alessandria made it necessary to take adequate interventions, to prevent and cope with possible attitudes of exclusion and intolerance.

In this context, the joint action between third sector and public institutions was significant, to provide adequate assistance to the increasing number of immigrants with a status of international protection. In fact, once out of SPRAR projects, (Protection System for Asylum Seekers and Refugees), beneficiaries often need further help and support in finding a house and a job.

The BARAKA project was addressed to 40 migrants with status of international protection, who successfully concluded their inclusion project previously started in the territorial projects of the SPRAR and the CAS (Centers of Extraordinary Reception). The project lasted 18 months, starting May 26, 2017 and ended on December 31, 2018.

After a first phase of identification and selection of immigrants meeting the requirements of the project, targeted interventions of about 9 months followed: support for house placement, development of professional and work skills and job placement

This project had excellent results and demonstrated that funding a project for the integration of immigrants does not only benefit society, but also fosters social, economic and institutional collaboration.

FROM HOSPITALITY TO SOCIAL ENTERPRISES: BEYOND THE EXAMPLE

RURITAGE

Since June 2018 PIAM has been partner of Ruritage (Rural regeneration through systemic heritage-led strategies), a project funded by the European Research and Innovation Program Horizon 2020, coordinated by the University of Bologna and sponsored by UNESCO.

This project analyzed the enhancement processes of the cultural and natural heritage developed in rural areas and identified the reception model implemented by PIAM to address migrants and refugees, as a good practice to be replicated.

The good practices implemented by PIAM and by 13 other associations were studied in order to create a database and to enhance their effectiveness and transferability.

The University of Bologna (UNIBO) singled out Villa Quagliana Reception Center, a former seminary located in the hilly area just outside the town of Asti, as a symbol of hospitality and integration through the recovery of local heritage. In fact, Villa Quagliana has been hosting several events aimed at promoting, developing and strengthening the social potential of cultural and natural heritage.

CAMPI DI VILLA QUAGLINA

Villa Quagliana is the former Seminary of the Oblates of San Giuseppe in Asti.

A beautiful villa of the last century surrounded by greenery, with an adjoining farmhouse and six hectares of arable land, a complex that had been unused for years.

In 2014, the Consortium CO.AL.A and PIAM Onlus took over the management of Villa Quagliana to start a shelter for asylum seekers and refugees.

In this context, PIAM developed a project to enhance and preserve the Piedmontese agro-food excellences, a new idea of Social Enterprise.

TERRE di MONALE

The project "Terre di Monale" started a pottery workshop that employed victims of trafficking, which in time became a small business.

The project allowed to rediscover the artisan techniques of ceramics processing, creating high-quality, unique and customized tableware, and significantly contributing to the preservation of the rich and deeply rooted traditions of our territory. The artifacts – dishes of all shapes and size, do not only represent artisan quality: the added value of the dishes lays in their ethical and social implications of the project.

In fact, Terre di Monale proved it possible to set up a business with young African women victims of trafficking. Women who are illiterate in most cases, or poorly educated and almost always destined to find low-skilled and precarious jobs or to return to prostitution.

<https://www.terredimonale.it>

Terre di Monale was rewarded as a business model within the "Flagship Event for Mediterranean Challenges" awarding, that took place at the Auditorium of the CR Firenze Foundation on 23 October 2018. The awarding was promoted by RFK Human Rights, an organization whose mission is to raise awareness and educate about human rights.

“La mia esperienza è al servizio degli altri”

La straordinaria testimonianza di Princess Inyang Okokon, ex vittima di tratta

VALEERIA GUARNIERA, Comunicazione Progetto INCIPIT Regione Calabria

“L'inganno, la paura e la cattiveria di persone senza scrupoli mi avevano privato della mia dignità. Ma dopo tante sofferenze, facendo leva su tutta la forza ed il coraggio possibile, finalmente mi ero decisa: dovevo riprendere in mano la mia vita. Non volevo più scappare, era giunto il momento di combattere”. Sono parole forti e piene di speranza quelle di Princess Inyang Okokon. Mediatrice culturale nata in Nigeria, ex vittima di tratta e sfruttamento sessuale, ha condiviso la propria esperienza nel corso di uno degli eventi formativi promossi dal progetto INCIPIT della Regione Calabria per le vittime di tratta e sfruttamento sessuale. Al centro del suo appassionato racconto risiede il dramma delle vite spezzate, l'efficacia della mediazione culturale nella relazione di aiuto, la forza delle progettualità, l'importanza del lavoro di prossimità nei territori: ad ascoltarla, una platea attenta e interessata. “La mia è una storia come tante”, è questa la sua amara constatazione. Era il 1999 quando, con la promessa di un lavoro da cameriera in Europa, Princess viene portata a Londra

e poi a Torino. Si ritrova in strada, costretta a prostituirsi, controllata da una mobresse: “Sono stata veduta, proprio come si fa con un oggetto”. Da lì in poi l'inferno, fino all'incontro con l'uomo che sarebbe diventato suo marito. “All'inizio non mi fidavo; è difficile, dopo che hai subito tutte quelle umiliazioni, pensare che qualcuno possa realmente volere il tuo bene”. Oggi Princess è una donna forte, impegnata con l'associazione Piam Onlus di Asti - Progetto Integrazione Accoglienza Migranti - che aiuta le donne in stato di schiavitù sessuale: “L'ascolto è tutto: le ragazze devono sapere che non sono sole, che c'è qualcuno disposto ad ascoltarle. La mia esperienza è al servizio degli altri”. Quella di Princess è la testimonianza intensa e sincera di chi - pur portando con sé un passato terribile - oggi sorride e guarda al futuro. ●
